

My Wedding Vows for Christy-Anne Strike

From the depths of my soul, this promise I weave,
To love you, my Christy-Anne, every morn and eve.
Your name is a melody, sweet and divine,
Etched in the heart that forever is mine.

With you, I have found life's truest art,
A dance of two souls, one beat, one heart.
In your laughter, my spirit finds its song,
In your embrace, I've known where I belong.

Through the seasons of life, I'll stand by your side,
As the ocean meets shore with each flowing tide.
In sunlight, in shadow, in joy, or in rain,
I'll cherish you deeply, in pleasure or pain.

Your beauty transcends what the eyes can perceive,
It's the light of your spirit, the love you believe.
Your kindness, your courage, your radiant grace,
Make the world brighter, a more sacred place.

When the winds of life roar, fierce and unkind,
I'll be your shelter, your strength, your mind.
When triumphs arise, as surely they will,
I'll be there to cheer you, your partner, until...

Until time fades to whispers, and stars lose their glow,
My love for you, Christy-Anne, will only grow.
For eternity's promise is what I now make,
Bound by the vows that I never will break.

Let us journey together, through life's winding streams,
Building our castle from hopes and from dreams.
With laughter our mortar, with love our foundation,
A union ordained by divine consecration.

So here in your gaze, beneath Heaven's sky,
I vow to adore you till the day that I die.
With a heart full of love and a soul wholly true,
My Christy-Anne Strike, I choose forever with you.
