

Dearest Nat,

I feel like our relationship has jumped to a completely different level - and I am ecstatic about it!

With the problems at your place with the bed bugs and the mice/rats - I want you to feel comfortable living out of my place.

A suggestion is that we get a storage locker and put lots of your stuff there (like lots of your clothes). Bring all your valuables to my place and we'll keep them here. In this way you can let the exterminators come in and clean your place without having to worry about them going through all your stuff.

If we can decrease the clutter by keeping a storage locker with most of your stuff - this may pave the way for us ultimately living together - perhaps in a 4&1/2 in my building. I would wait until everything is settled with the divorce before making a move such as this. But for now - consider 6950 Fielding #601 as yours and Chris' home.

I think we are hitting a wonderful stride and I look forward to every new day and the wonders that it brings! Today I cried while watching Chris waking up in the living room and going through all of his motions! God is SO amazing - He has given me a beautiful woman - inside and out - and a wonderful son who is more like an infant than a 4 year old - and who I will get to experience grow into a wonderful young man!

They say that people cannot change but I do not believe this. I believe that if the motivation is there and it is strong enough - we can change anything and everything. The motivation is there for me as I know it is for you - Nat. We will become everything God wants us to be for each other - I am very confident of this! And in the process We (Noel, Norah and I) will shower us with blessings which you will not be able to believe!

All my love,
