

Dearest Nat,

You didn't have to block me on FB - I would not have contacted you.

On Saturday at the park Gary, Justin and I had a conversation about Pete - where they were saying that he was stealing their positive energy - that it wasn't fair - and that they wished he would just stay away and keep his negativity to himself. I offered my opinion and insight - which is that perhaps by allowing him to 'bathe' in our positive energy this would serve to make him better - for all concerned. This is the way I choose to deal with all people - irrespective of what they give me in return.

As example - knowing that Chris Connor is looking for a new sanctuary - I contacted my former girlfriend Jill Salomon - the daughter of the owner of Cavendish Mall who was pregnant with our child when we were young and refused my offer to marry her. Jill is a very troubled individual and has a lot of venom in her. Her Dad is a wonderful man and owns the building where the Walkley Community Centre is housed. The basement is really nice and I thought Chris might like to consider this as a potential sanctuary - especially if he could get it near rent free. I sent Jill a message and she returned my email with venom! She perceived me as asking for a favour for myself - when really I was doing it for you and Chris and Norma.

And then there is you. You do not believe I am Jesus Chris - as I know I am. As such - you fall into the other category of people who know I have a serious mental illness. Schizophrenia. Given this knowledge - Natasha - how can you blame anyone but yourself for what has happened between us? I am obviously not capable of right thinking as I am deluded - so the blame must necessarily fall on you. But you are punishing me by cutting off all ties.

I'm a big boy and I can handle everything that is thrown at me. I am not a wimp - even though I cry easily because everything I do I do with my complete Being. Whatever you choose to do I am okay with - but I am just saying that the way you are dealing with this is not the ideal. We must love everything and hate nothing. That is the path that Jesus has led us down. That is the path that Jesus is leading you down.

All my love,
