

Dearest Nat,

I just received a message from my sister Jo-Anne saying how sorry she is that things didn't work out between us. Today I saw Jack Sparrow in the hallway and he told me what an amazing woman he thinks you are and how lucky I am.

I wish with all my heart that I didn't have to do what I did - but - because of the life I have chosen - or rather God has chosen for me - staying together became impossible for me. I hope with time God will lead you to understanding - and to forgiveness. I can't bear to have you upset with me.

My sister said that she hoped that you and I could remain special friends - and that is my hope. I'd love to be a central part of yours and Chris' lives - helping you towards reaching and exceeding every objective you both have. I'd love to celebrate your victories with you and to be there when times are tough - like this coming weekend. I'd love for us to go to Kanda and honour your Dad while you enjoy some of your favourite food - and Heinekens! I'd love to celebrate our joint birthdays together. I want to give you the room and space to be fully you - and to welcome someone really special into your life - someone brought to you by Noel, Norah and me!

On that note, I wrote to Jason Momoa. He divorced Lisa Bonet in 2022 and is seeing a Puerto Rican actress at present. I told him about you and how you are the rarest of gems - someone he would not find in all his searchings. My hope is that God will intervene in this and will cause him to follow this up. If not Jason, I will find you someone wonderful - and with the means to give you everything you and Chris deserve - now! Mike will become a distant, bad memory.

As for me - Nat - I am really good - even great! I am so thankful and grateful to God - and to you - for these last 6 weeks. They will sustain me for a long time. My bed and pillows still smell like you and I love it!

All my love,
